

SVARUPA

The Vedas, preserved in their fullness and illumined for our time

Svarupa (स्वरूप, “one’s true nature”) is a digital home for the Śruti and Smṛti traditions. It unites the revealed texts, the bhāṣya of the Mahātmas, rigorous Sanskrit grammatical analysis and carefully governed AI. Every mantra can be read, heard, understood and contemplated in its fullness, by the scholar and the sādhaḥka alike.

54,379 verified verses	5 Vedas	13 śākhās	136 Vedic texts	104 Upaniṣads

Fidelity to the tradition

- ♦ Śruti in its traditional order. The Saṃhitā, Brāhmaṇa, Āraṇyaka and Upaniṣad of each śākhā, with the ṛṣi, devatā and chandas of every mantra, in Devanāgarī with svara and in Roman IAST.
- ♦ The voice of the Mahātmas. The bhāṣya of Sri Sāyaṇācārya, Maharishi Dayanand Saraswati and other Mahātmas and scholars, with their anvaya, padārtha, mantra viśaya and commentary.
- ♦ Verified by human hands. Pada-pāṭha is drawn from critical editions and checked by hand. Each bhāṣya is digitized, then corrected line by line.
- ♦ The Veda as one fabric. Parallel and repeated mantras are linked across texts using Bloomfield’s Vedic Concordance.

Śabda: precision for the Sanskrit scholar

- ♦ Morphological analysis of every word (root, form and grammar), built on Sanskrit Heritage (Dr. Gérard Huet), Saṃsādhani (Dr. Amba Kulkarni) and the Digital Corpus of Sanskrit (Dr. Oliver Hellwig).
- ♦ Dual pada-pāṭha, one for recitation and one for analysis. Also chandas analysis (nicṛt, virāt, bhurik) and vikṛti pāṭhas such as krama, jaṭā and ghana, following the rules of each Veda.
- ♦ Your own analysis. Use Svarupa’s AI and morphological tools directly to run custom analyses of any mantra, passage or theme for your own research.

Artha and bhāva: meaning for the seeker

- ♦ AI interpretation of Mahātma bhāṣya makes each Mahātma’s padārtha, mantra viśaya and commentary clear today, faithful to the original.
- ♦ For every mantra: viśaya, bhāvārtha, purpose, usage and uniqueness, with reflections on its ṛṣi, devatā and chandas. Each is read through the ādhibhautika, ādhidaivika and ādhyātmika lenses; Brāhmaṇas add the ādhiyajñika.
- ♦ Governed with care. Two AI models write each explanation, a third judges between them, and people review the results. Scripture, bhāṣya and AI are always shown as distinct sources.

Śravaṇa: to hear, read and learn

- ♦ Authentic chanting of Veda mantras in the traditional manner, with each mantra divided into pādas by chandas, as taught in Veda pāṭhaśālās.
- ♦ Translations in English, 8 Indian languages and 3 international languages, plus text-to-speech of meanings and commentary.
- ♦ Overview and in-depth articles, guided by Sanskrit scholars, including comparisons of the bhāṣyas of different Mahātmas. Available on web, Android and iOS.

A path for every user

Svarupa adapts to who you are, with views and pathways suited to each kind of user: academic institutions (teachers, researchers and students), independent scholars, Veda pāṭhaśālās (ācāryas and vidyārthīs), self-learners, spiritual organizations and sādhaḥkas, and the general public. Each can begin at their own level and go as deep as they wish.
